Less Downtime
When used as a Backup Option, if the primary internet connection fails for any reason, businesses can continue to run essential applications and keep employees connected.

Wide Coverage
Viasat's satellite internet service is available in many remote and rural areas where traditional broadband options are limited or unavailable, making it a reliable choice for connectivity.

Quick Installation
Our satellite internet can be set up relatively quickly, making it convenient for primary or backup situations.

Minimal Infrastructure Dependency
Since Viasat relies on satellites, it is less vulnerable to local infrastructure issues like cable cuts or line damage.

Redundancy
Having a diverse backup source, such as satellite internet, can help ensure internet access even if your primary connection (e.g., fiber, cable) experiences downtime.
